New release from the author of <The Hen Who Dreamed She Could Fly>

The girl walks out with her mom to the garden to plant her bunny doll because she believes if she plants her bunny doll in the garden, there will be more than 10 baby dolls as her mom's beans! She is excited to imagine sharing her dolls with friends.

But what if earthworms dig their ways around the bunny? What if ants bit the bunny? And when sun sets and it gets dark, the bunny doll would catch a cold...

The girl is so worried about her baby bunny doll, so she ends up pulling it out and going back home together.

As she takes care of the plant, she can learn the joy of giving and sharing.
