Find out where the Korean leading young illustrator of Paper Daddy got all her beautiful work ideas in this autobiographical account of her childhood!

Ji-eun, a little girl spends most of her time with her grandmother in home, describes her childhood.

Most of working moms are too busy to take care of children all day. So every morning Ji-eun cries when her mother goes to work, and she misses mom.

Ji-eun was "born from" her mother but she has been living with her grandmother since she was baby, and I she feels absence inside and thinks of grandma as her mother. That is why the title is My granny mother.

In childhood, we have such a memories of emotional guardians in many ways. And it is hard to appreciate them enough at that time.

But when we getting older, we realize that they are precious for such a short time in our life. It is important to express love and cherish them because it's over before we know that. The story shows grandmother's boundless love and makes feel how precious it is.

With this autobiographical picture book, the author offers all age readers a deeply heart touching view of her precious guardian, the mother granny.

A gentle, comforting story with beautiful illustration about an ordinary family but it is a one-of-a-kind, a heart-warming tale of maternal love from a memories of grandmother.
