Guess what? Clouds' farts do indeed create thunder and rain in the sky.

When Mr. Fartmaster Clouds lets out a resounding “Puuu!!”, a mighty “Roar, Bang!” of thunder follows, bringing forth rain. This rain transforms the world into vibrant green and causes flowers to bloom. The baby clouds aspire to become like Mr. Fartmaster Clouds, practicing to produce the best and most tremendous farts just like him, but they still have a long way to go.

Suddenly, a fire engulfs the forest, and Mr. Fartmaster Clouds is nowhere to be found – he’s stuck atop a willow tree. The fire rages on, growing larger by the moment. What should be done? Can the baby clouds step in to extinguish the fire and save the forest?

Author Biography

Young-hee Kim embarks on the creation of this book after being inspired by her son's words: "The sound of thunder is so scary!" Collecting a piece of short stories and illustrating them, she like to share the joy that such fleeting moments can bring.
