A picture book filling with beautiful moments in charming and poignant way.

Here is a puppy and a baby girl – they were born in the same year. They started their first steps to the world together, playing together, listening to their stories, and standing by each other even when sick.

Nine, ten, eleven... The child gets more into her own shadow in the mirror and spends lots of time at her desk in doing homework which her friend can't understand, but he is always at her elbow.

Thirteen, fourteen, fifteen... A teenager girl has her own world, having an argument with her mum. Would it be possible for her to stay with her dog for ever and ever?
